

Working on your own Repair Café logo

Below is a step-by-step explanation on how to adapt the editable logo files yourself, and how to use them afterwards.

Before you begin

The editable logo templates are PDF documents. You can edit them using Adobe Reader. On some computers it does not work to save the edited files, so that you can send them via email or put them on a usb stick to print them elsewhere. It is always possible to print an edited file while you are in the document itself.

Filling in

When you open a file in the PDF reader, you'll see a blue field next to the general logo. This is the field where you can fill in your own text. For example a placename, or the tagline 'Toss it? No way!' Click with your mouse in the blue field and type your text.

Use

Which logo file to use depends on what you want to do with it. If you want to use the edited logo digitally, or in forms that you are going to print at home yourself, then use the RGB files. If you want to use the logo in professional print, then choose the CMYK files.

Good luck!
